Waveland, FmHA trying to agree on sewer loan without rate increase

BY DENA BISNETTE

Terms of a Farmer's Home Administration loan that would enable the City of Waveland to extend sewerage to another 164 homes, mostly in Ward One, have proven unacceptable to the city administration.

At a public hearing this week, FmHA representative Wayne Smith discussed the loan application with the mayor and board of aldermen, explaining that one of the conditions the federal agency has placed on loaning the city $1.3 million for the project involves raising and restructuring utility rates.

"I understand they want every assurance in the world that they'll be paid back," Mayor John Longo Jr. said Friday, "but I can't see raising the rates."

He feels Waveland will be able to repay the loan over the 35-year term specified in the application without raising the rates.

"Basically, we have a debt-free city. I can't say what the future will bring, because any time you have a change in (presidential) administration the economy changes, but at this time, I would say there will certainly be no increase."

"As of today, Waveland would have no problem financing the money."

Smith explained at the hearing that the conditions call for a reduction in the 10,000 gallon minimum water usage for which the city currently charges $17. Instead, the FmHA is proposing that the minimum be 3,000 gallon, with each additional 1,000 gallons to cost 75 cents over the $17 base rate.

Rocky Hill man charged in Fenton armed robbery

BY D.C. HARVILL

A Rocky Hill man thought to have robbed a Hancock County convenience store at gun point last week has been arrested and charged by the Hancock County Sheriff's Department.

Sidney McWilliams, 27, Rt. 1, Pass Christian (Rocky Hill) was arrested at his home about 6:30 p.m. Friday and charged with armed robbery, according to Investigator Nathan Hoda.

McWilliams allegedly held up Fenton Quick Stop in Fenton Community Monday, taking $150 in cash, 10 packs of cigarettes and two quarts of oil.

The robber entered the store at about 2:30 Monday afternoon, displayed a weapon, described by the store's clerk as an automatic pistol, and demanded money.

After taking the money and merchandise, he placed the clerk in a storage room, blocking the door with sacks of dog food.

The gunman then fled the scene in a small "brown-orange" station wagon.

According to Hoda, "several alert citizens" reported spotting a car matching the description and the last three letters of the license plate number matched the number they had been given.

McWilliams was arrested after being interviewed by the officers and a search of the home turned up a pellet pistol that looked like an automatic handgun.

Hoda was assisted in the arrest by Deputies George Burleson and Johnny Walker.

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors has approved a joint agreement with the cities of Waveland and Bay St. Louis regarding the Waveland Animal Shelter.

The City of Waveland retains the right to terminate the agreement with 90 days written notice to Bay St. Louis and the Hancock County Board of Supervisors.

Beat Three Supervisor Lisa Covand, a member of the original tri-entity animal commission that built the shelter, indicated at Friday's board meeting that the contract is not entirely satisfactory, but is better than the previous arrangement, which Waveland could cancel without notice.

Bay St. Louis will contribute $75 per month to the operation of the shelter, with Hancock County's share being $675.

All three entities have participated in funding the shelter since its construction in 1983.

In 1988, controversy erupted regarding just which entity should use the shelter and whether the Hancock County Humane Society should be represented on its board of commissioners, which at one time included as many as 17 members.

The original agreement for shelter operation was an unwritten one.

Last year when expansion of the building was being discussed due to steady increases in the number of animals being brought there, Mayor John Longo Jr. contended that Waveland was bearing all of the unseen costs of shelter operation, which included such expenses as cost

Rain and low temperatures are delaying completion of repair work on Beach Road.

According to Hancock County Engineer Larry Seal, two areas where the pavement was severely deteriorated, including the end of Nicholson Avenue, have been temporarily fixed as a convenience to the public.

BayTech honored for export excellence

Congressman Gene Taylor presented the nation's foremost exporting award to Charles R. Ramsey, Bay Technical Associates president, during a recent ceremony in Washington.

The "E" Award was created by President John Kennedy in 1961 to dramatize the importance of expanding the nation's export trade, and to recognize companies for successful and noteworthy effort to increase U.S. export.

BayTech was one of the 10 U.S. companies selected to receive the "E" Award in 1988 and is the second Mississippi company to receive the award since its inception.

BayTech designs and manufactures a diverse line of computer peripheral sharing devices and data communications products. International sales during the first half of 1988 accounted for over 30 percent of the company's total revenues, more than twice the industry average. Now exporting to 38 countries, BayTech attributes the employment of 20 of its 100-member staff to export sales.

HANUKKAH

Hanukkah has been celebrated for more than 21 centuries by millions of people. Once only a minor holiday in the Jewish calendar, it now plays a more dominant role in Jewish life. Yet Hanukkah remains one of the most misunderstood of holidays to Jews and Christians alike, partly because it falls so close to Christmas.

"Hanukkah: Let There Be Lights" at 9:30 p.m., Wednesday, Dec. 20 on Mississippi ETV, explains this special Jewish celebration. Almost always falls in December each year, the traditional lighting of candles (the menorah), the games, gifts and even the foods all have religious significance.

Perry attends
Naval reunion

USS Hank (DD 702) "plankowner," former crew member Kelly E. Perry and his wife Mary of Bay St. Louis joined other crew members at Baton Rouge, La. recently to meet again after more than 40 years.

Eight "plankowners," as members of the original crew are called, joined other shipmates of three wars for this event. The days were taken up with bull sessions, sharing pictures, meeting families we had never met and telling "sea stories."

A solemn service was observed at the Louisiana Naval War Memorial to remember shipmates killed in action by kamikaze attacks during WWII as well as those from the Korean and Vietnam wars. The USS Hank saw combat in all three wars.

Former crew members attending the reunion came from North Dakota, New Hampshire to Florida and everywhere in between. Perry served on the Hank from 1944 to 1946 and saw action in the Pacific during WWII.

The Hank was commissioned in 1944 and served the United States and her crews until she was sold to Argentina in 1972. Several crew members from other ships in the Sea-horse Squadron, the USS English, Borie and Lind were made welcome at this reunion. A second reunion is scheduled for 1990 at Myrtle Beach, S.C.

Area Calling Plan offered to local residents

Telephone customers on the Mississippi Gulf Coast are receiving complete information about a new kind of local telephone service.

South Central Bell's new Area Calling Plan, which gives customers more control over their phone bills and an expanded local calling area, became available to Coast residents on Dec. 1. Customers may subscribe to the new plan by returning a card they will receive in the mail or by calling the South Central Bell business office.

After a basic line charge that is less than the charge for flat-rate service, Area Calling Plan customers will pay additionally for each local call. Plus, they will be able to dial any other Mississippi Gulf Coast number without dialing a "1"—at rates about 2/3 less than long distance rates.

"For example, a 10-minute daytime call from Gulfport to Pascagoula will cost about $7.2," said Pat Santucci, district manager. "The same call at long distance rates would cost $2.93."

Customers may keep the same local service they are on now. "However, only the Area Calling Plan offers the advantage of the expanded local calling area," Santucci said.

After the Area Calling Plan is introduced, the current Local Measured Service Plan offered by the company will no longer be available to new subscribers, though customers currently on local measured service may keep it.

"For customers who do decide to keep their local measured service, the rates for calling certain locations will change slightly," Santucci said. "These customers are being notified of the changes by mail."

Custom calling services such as call waiting can be added to the Area Calling Plan just as with other forms of local service.

LOCAL BRIEF

NEW DIRECTOR

The Rivers and Harbors Association of Mississippi is announcing the employment of Ms. Margie Tyler as executive director of the association.

Tyler brings to the organization many years of managerial experience, according to Association President Charles E. Moak.

The non-profit corporation was first organized in 1957 for the purpose of promoting and advancing Mississippi rivers, ports, harbors and coastal and inland waterways. Currently, emphasis is also being placed on such issues as flood control, water resources development and management including recreation and water supply.

Tyler will be working closely with water-oriented organizations and various governmental officials to effect a statewide water resource management plan.

The development of this plan was mandated by the Mississippi Legislature and initial funding for work on the plan was provided by the 1989 session.

Reflections

On Life

By Father Jerome
LeDoux, SVD

I love you

"She told me! She told me!" The deliciously excited voice tailed off, then quickly rose again in volume and emphasis: "The told me! My mother told me, 'I love you!' My mother told me, 'I love you!'"

These words, which came in hot over the telephone very recently took me back quickly to some 15 years ago when another friend called at almost that same 1 a.m. hour to tell me practically the same thing almost word for word: "My mother just told me, 'Child, I love you!'"

Curiously, my friend of 15 years ago was about 37 years old when her mother finally told her for the first time, "Child, I love you!"

My friend in the recent episode had gone through even harder times, since she was about a decade beyond 37 by the time her mother got around to telling her that she loved her.

Both of them were crying uncontrollably and unashamedly on the phone. The friend, of more recent vintage added with great exuberance: "No matter what anyone says or does to me today, nobody can make me unhappy today! No one can make me lose this marvelous feeling which I have since I heard my mother tell me that she loves me! Even if she never says it again, this is enough for me!"

Psychiatrists and medical doctors are finally beginning to get on the bandwagon. They are telling us and they are even writing in medical journals things which most of us have sensed instinctively down through the years of our lives; namely, that tender, loving care works wonders far disproportionate to its efforts.

They are telling us, further, that negative attitudes, negative words and negative acts create sickness in our bodies, our minds and our emotions. Contrariwise, they are assuring us that positive attitudes, words and actions create wholeness, bring about health, healing and an overwhelming feeling of well-being.

It has been only a handful of years that doctors have been observing that negative attitude and negative stress can weaken our immune system to the extent that dread diseases, even cancer, can make inroads in our bodies, not to mention our nerves.

We can almost say that negative attitudes and severe negative stress is like another form of AIDS, robbing us of our immune system and placing us at the mercy of killer viruses.

The world of medicine and the world of psychiatry both have their place in our lives; both have their own functions and benefits. However, until recently, both chose to exclude some of the most fundamental human experiences from their arsenal of healing.

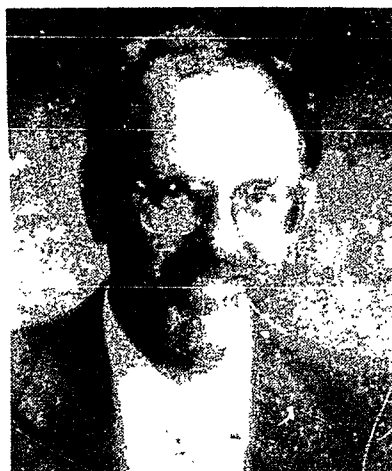

Now they are beginning to admit and even to prescribe what the man Jesus laid out plainly 1,956 years ago: that we human beings are one inseparable unit of body, mind, emotion and soul.

So, why should it surprise us at all that we affect one another's bodies, for better or worse by our attitudes, our words and our actions?

As one doctor after another parades through the press, on the radio and across the TV screens, touting their latest findings on the marvelous power of love to eradicate disease and to restore health, we should hold their feet to the fire and coerce them to give credit to the Master where credit is due.

For beginners, we can refer them to Matthew 5 and 6, where an entire health plan is laid out for psychiatrists and the rest of us. Then we can lead them on to the fullest meaning of "I love you," namely, the fantastic command of Jesus that we must love each other with the same intense love with which he loved us.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Bay St. Louis Fire Chief Andrew Lizana has been very busy Christmas shopping for more than 1,100 deserving youngsters already on the Hancock County Doll and Toy Fund's list.

That is the most requests ever in the history of the fund, and Chief Lizana knows there will be several hundred more before Christmas.

The Doll and Toy Fund is an agency of the United Way of Hancock County and also receives private and business contributions. Many residents help by providing useable toys which their children have outgrown and some bring new toys to the Bay Fire Station, Old Spanish Trail, Bay St. Louis.

Some businesses also collect new toys for the fund, and this is really needed this year with so many requests.

The help of everyone is really appreciated and if there are those who would like to help and haven't done so as yet, now is the time.

Lizana said what he really needs now are toys in good shape or cash so he can purchase them at special prices he receives from several of the area's outlets.

The names of deserving youngsters are received from various agencies by the fire department.

I would like to see every deserving youngster have a Merry Christmas.

Persons seeking further information may call 467-4736.

Wouldn't it be good to have the black bear which was killed on Interstate 10 returned to Hancock County and be placed on display possibly in the courthouse.

The Southern black bear was struck by a motor home as he crossed the busy highway several weeks ago.

I have had a local businessman call me and offer to put up $100 towards having a taxidermist stuff the animal.

If they have not already done so, the Hancock County Board of Supervisors needs to contact the Mississippi Museum of Natural History and see if they wouldn't return the carcass to Hancock County. This could be done after the museum has completed its study of the bear, as I understand they already have several black bears in their collection.

As most of you know black bears are on the endangered species in Mississippi.

It is very possible the animal was the one which caused some excitement earlier this year in the Cedar Point area of Bay St. Louis where a bear was spotted several times.

I know there are few bears in the state and a Southern black bear could even be an educational tool for our young children.

Myself, I have hunted in Hancock County since an early age, and I have never seen a bear in the woods. We will have to wait and see what happens.

On Wednesday night I returned from Waveland down Beach Boulevard and was surprised at how smooth the road is now, compared to my last trip on the road.

The repairs are only temporary and will be done on a permanent basis when weather permits.

Temperatures have to rise above 55 degrees before asphalt can be applied and of course it has to be done at a dry time too.

Weather conditions are delaying the overall project and I know those of us who travel Beach Boulevard will sure be happy when the job is completed.

When it comes to shoplifting, these days "lightfingers" are being treated with a heavy hand.

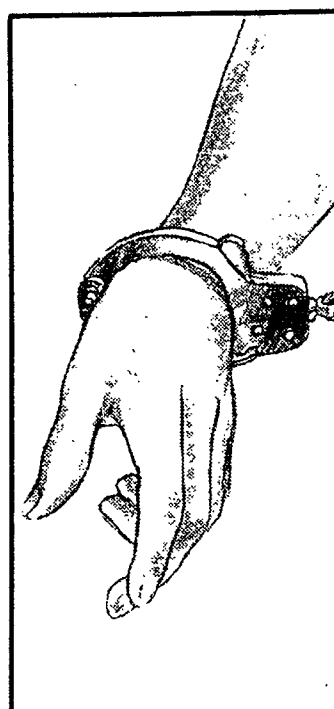

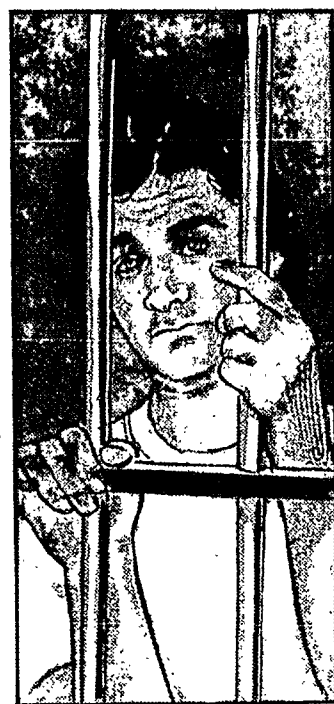

Shoplifting is a serious crime that is neither petty nor "victimless".

In fact, everybody suffers—from the store owner and insurance company to the consumer who is forced to pay the higher prices that result.

But, if you're caught, you'll be the one who suffers most. Like a jailbird, you'll be banded—and, when the cuffs come off, they'll leave a mark that lasts a lifetime.

So, if you think that all you'll get is a slap on the wrist, think again.

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

By Bill Minor

Secretary of State Molpus trying to change voter registration

When Secretary of State Dick Molpus went to the 1989 Legislature with his bill to provide for mail-in voter registration in Mississippi he rather naively thought it would pass on its own merits.

He miscalculated the political undercurrent of the Mississippi Circuit Clerks Association, which had earlier voted to take a neutral position on the mail-in registration measure.

But when it came up for a vote in the Mississippi House, overnight the circuit clerks rallied the troops and scuttled the measure by attaching an amendment making it a revenue bill, requiring a three-fifths vote for approval.

That caused the bill to fail by a handful of votes.

Molpus decided it was time to go out and organize his troops—the elderly, the shut-ins, and the laboring people who can't get away from their jobs to register during working hours—and confront the circuit clerks.

In September, Molpus and his staffers had gone to the executive committee of the Circuit Clerks Association asking to sit down and work out a compromise bill on mail-in registrations. The executive committee adamantly refused to work with him.

Meantime, the secretary of state's staff began checking with individual clerks around the state and found 34 clerks favored the bill, 23 were against and the remaining 25 were in between.

So Molpus worked with the supportive clerks to perfect the bill for a new shot at passing it in the 1990 session which starts next month.

This time it won't be Molpus flying more or less solo trying to put through the simplified method of voter registration.

Behind him will be strong backing from such organizations as the Mississippi Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP), the Coalition for Citizens with Disabilities, the Mississippi Association of Retired Teachers, the Mississippi Municipal Association, the Election Commissioners Association and a half dozen or so traditional good government organizations.

The AARP, with 267,000 members in Mississippi, had endorsed the mail-in voter registration bill in the 1989 session, but added its voice too late to be fully heard. This time, AARP has put out a brochure and is working aggressively for the measure.

"This is hardly a radical proposition," said Molpus. "Texas has done it for 50 years and Tennessee has had it since 1975." In all, there are 24 states with mail-in voter registration, encompassing some 60 percent of all the voters in the country.

Molpus' office has surveyed all of the states where voters can register by mail and found that there have been no cases of fraud.

Because the process involves the United States mails, anyone using mail registration fraudulently would be subject to prosecution for mail fraud, which carries a tough sentence of up to five years in federal prison.

To register by mail, the applicant will have to have a witness who must be a registered voter in the same county. The form is mailed to the circuit clerk, who would enter the registration.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Ignoring marine marshlands increases fishing industry plight

Dear Editor:

Shrimpers cry, crabbers bitch, oystermen curse; begging for relief while ignoring tens of thousands of acres of once productive marine marshlands, dying behind senseless sea-walls, untenable beach-front roads, and pumped-in beaches masquerading as "berms," protection for those untenable roads.

Marine marshes nurse and nurture about 95 percent of the fin and shellfish harvested in the Mississippi Sound and the Gulf. Is it any wonder then that the Mississippi Sound is dying as a fishery?

It will cost some millions of dollars to elevate roadways now isolating and killing Mississippi's marine marshes, some millions to restore those marshes to productivity.

Yet, Mississippi is now committed to $16 million to divert some of the Mississippi River into the Mississippi Sound, via Pontchartrain, et al., etc. Was not the Mississippi so dried up a year or so ago that shipping was nearly halted? Did not the Corps of Engineers consider draining some of the Great Lakes into the Mississippi River in order to sustain navigability? Does not Hancock County spend about a million a year to patch a miserable, destructive road and clean, level, and fill the "berm" beach?

Fishermen, commercial and sports, who ignore the demise of their own fisheries, supporting marshlands should shut up or put up and get behind reclamation and restoration of our marine marshlands.

Healthy marshes would supply much of the fresh water that the Sound needs, would clean and direct to the marshes the surface waters that must eventually be collected at all coastal and other waterfront habitats (man).

It's too great a task for any mayor, councilman, supervisor, state or federal legislator, or any single agency to comprehend, let alone take on. But all local, regional, state, and federal agencies concerned with conservation, restoration, recreation, and survival...it would be a snap.

Most of all, Mississippi's marine marsh reclamation and restoration needs Gov. Mabus to prod Secretary of State Molpus to get on with his job as trust officer of all of Mississippi's tidelands.

Prevention of ASRM testing is our responsibility

To the Editor,

Testing of advanced solid rocket motors (ASRMs) at Stennis Space Center poses an irresponsible and untenable risk to our health and environment. In each two minute test, NASA intends to release 127 tons of hydrogen chloride gas and 215 tons of fine particulate aluminum oxide and expects us to unquestioningly believe that these huge bursts of toxic aerosols will not be dangerous.

However, both these chemicals pose numerous hazards. Aluminum oxide particles cause respiratory ailments in humans and kill plants and fish. Aluminum is found in the brains of Alzheimer's victims and is suspected as a factor in this debilitating disease.

Hydrogen chloride gas is corrosive, burns on contact, and damages lungs. Hydrogen chloride in the atmosphere destroys ozone, decreasing the protection that ozone provides against biologically damaging ultraviolet radiation.

Together, these chemicals are even more dangerous. Aluminum oxide particles in the rocket exhaust plume will be coated with hydrochloric acid. These chemicals will react to form aluminum chloride, which is a soluble, biologically-available form of aluminum that is easily absorbed into living tissue.

NASA predicts safe concentrations of these toxins following a rocket firing. But I find several reasons to doubt these assurances.

First, these predicted concentrations are averaged over 24 hours but the chemicals are emitted in only two minutes. Peak concentrations will be many times higher than the levels stated by NASA.

Second, the effects of repeated doses of these toxins over a long time period (NASA proposes 30 years of tests) are not known.

Third, these concentrations are predicted from an atmospheric dispersion model that was developed for an environment quite different from our humid, changeable, and unstable coastal atmosphere. This dispersion model was not approved by EPA for use in Utah, contrary to NASA's claim. NASA doesn't know how fast and how far these toxins will disperse before falling back down on us.

Fourth, NASA claims that emissions will meet existing standards, but neglects to mention that no air pollution standards exist for aluminum oxide and hydrogen chloride gas because these are not common industrial pollutants. If no standards exist, how is NASA evaluating safety?

NASA has repeatedly assured us that they will mitigate environmental damage; these assurances are an indirect admission that environmental damage will occur. The only means to assure that no damage occurs is to forbid testing of ASRMs.

Many local residents have similar concerns. If you have questions, ask them. Ask your elected officials. Ask the Mississippi Bureau of Pollution Control. Ask NASA, and demand a complete answer.

Explain your concerns to your friends and neighbors. Preventing ASRM tests and the inherent damage is our responsibility to ourselves, our children, our environment, and our future.

Sincerely,
Joan S. Cleveland, Ph.D.

Stillhunters seek support for changing hunting laws

To the Editor,

As evidenced by the many news articles, letters to editors, radio and television shows throughout Mississippi, the issue of deer dog hunting and road hunting is still raging. It has not nearly reached its peak.

Only effective legislation dealing with road hunting and the allocation of the gun hunting days for stillhunters will bring peace to the users of our deer resources.

The Mississippi Hunting Dog Association has defiantly and vigorously opposed attempts to legislate changes in the current useless road hunting law or any changes that would reduce a single day allocated to the use of dogs for hunting deer.

Currently 83 percent of the gun hunting days are allocated to deer dog hunters, even though stillhunters make up a majority of deer hunters. The 1988 Department of Wildlife, Fisheries, and Parks survey shows that 63.2 percent of Mississippi deer hunters want more stillhunting days as opposed to dog hunting.

The Mississippi Stillhunters Association is mailing 40,000 letters to prospective members and fully expects to equal or exceed the membership of the Mississippi Hunting Dog Association in the future.

The stillhunters of Mississippi are now organized to such extent that their voice can no longer be ignored.

Failure to make substantive change in the season and the road hunting law will only serve to bond the estimated 190,000 stillhunters together and those who care about the tradition of hunting deer with dogs will only lose more as the final result.

Sincerely,
Fred White, President
Mississippi Stillhunters Assoc.

Children see the best parts of a world adults don't notice

As the holiday season approaches, I notice young children and think about them more often.

I think about the five-year-old who was one of two victims of a murderer in Waveland last week, and it gives more meaning to the question I have heard several times in the days after her death: "What kind of a world is this for our children?"

I think about my two nieces, Samantha and Katie, both still less than two years old, and I think about one of my university classmates who will graduate soon and who would eventually like to share her life and knowledge with children.

And, I think of the kids who made up most of the cast of a recent community theatre project I somehow squeezed into my schedule a couple of weeks ago.

Just what kind of a world is it for them?

With apologies to Charles Dickens for borrowing and changing one of his lines, it is the best of worlds and it is the worst of worlds, all rolled up into one.

It's a world where the grown-ups worry about whether Gorbachev is going to change his mind and push the button after all. We lock our doors to keep out the thieves, druggies and murderers and we complain for hours about how much the Internal Revenue Service is grabbing out of our paychecks.

It's a world where, if you're out after businesses close or in a bad neighborhood, you can see street people using doorways and stairwells as shelter until somebody comes to run them off. It's a world where pictures of missing children or appeals for help to stop world hunger are broadcast on television or waiting with the rest of the mail.

As the economy gets worse, it's a world where job security grows less and less likely, and people wonder how they will pay their rent and feed their children.

This world is also a wonderful place, and the quality I like most about little children is their ability to see that.

Children notice all kinds of things we adults don't pay any attention to, and sometimes they can drive us nuts with their discoveries.

We're too busy to be excited about the fact that different-sized cans of food make slightly different sounds when thumped with a spoon, or that little tiny flowers are growing in the weeds near the fence or that two fallen leaves aren't exactly alike even though they fell of the same tree.

Discoveries bring questions that make adults think and can be a major nuisance at times.

Samantha was way too young to ask questions the day I was visiting and saw her discover one of her own feet, but if babies think the same way we do, I'm sure she wanted to know all kinds of things about her foot and feet in general.

A mother who was telling me about her four-year-old unknowingly explained children's logic to me. Her little boy wanted to know where the department store Santa parked his reindeer. We need to park our cars, so Santa needs parking spaces for his reindeer.

It makes perfect sense to the kids and if you don't try to complicate the matter with a lot of adult thinking, it will make perfect sense to you too.

Maybe the difference between adults and children is the way the little ones use their senses. There's a purity, a simplicity in the way they look, listen, feel, taste and smell.

An adult looks at a bumblebee and remembers having read something about the insects flying despite being improperly designed, from an aerodynamic standpoint, to do so.

The child looks at the bumblebee and notices the creature's vivid black and yellow coloring, sees the way it darts in and out of flowers and listens to the music in the buzzing sound it makes.

He wants to know more about the bee, but he certainly isn't concerned with aerodynamics yet. His questions are hard for the adult to answer, but they're really simple. He wants to know if they're all black and yellow or are they different colors, and if the bumblebee is eating the flowers.

I see many unhappy adults, but not many unhappy children. Perhaps we should take a break from our difficult world and visit their simple one from time to time.

In presenting the award to Ramsey, Taylor said, "By taking expertise to the private sector and creating jobs, BayTech is a perfect example of the type of high-tech industry that we want in South Mississippi."

Other participants in the award presentation ceremony were R. W. "Pete" Emerling, BayTech Data Communications division manager; Susan Schwab, director general of the U.S. and Foreign Commercial Service of the International Trade Administration; and Evelyn Scott, "E" Award program officer in the Department of Commerce.

Taylor presented Ramsey with a certificate signed by the Secretary of Commerce, Robert Mosbacher, in the name and by authority of the President of the United States.

According to Ramsey, BayTech continues to actively pursue new business in foreign markets. With emphasis on existing products as well as innovative data communications products, BayTech will increase its market share in the International Market Place.

The "E Star" Award, an award presented to companies that maintain a high level of exports for a minimum of three years after receiving the "E" Award, is a BayTech objective, Ramsey said.

Instead of 30 days before an election that is permitted or walk-in voter registrations, mail-ins would have to be registered 45 days before an election.

There is a trade-off for circuit clerks in the Molpus bill. The mail-in registration proposal would repeal the present law requiring clerks to take the registration books to at least three precincts in every county supervisor's district to register voters before every general election.

"The system of taking the registration books out to the precincts is not working. It's just a waste of money," Molpus declared.

Circuit clerks would be entitled to $2,000 additional compensation ($1,000 in the three largest counties) for administering mail-in registration of voters under the Molpus bill. Whether or not this provision will make it a revenue bill will be subject to interpretation of the presiding officers in each chamber.

But Molpus is mapping his strategy based on the probability that the bill will need a three-fifths vote to pass.

This week, Molpus was meeting with his coalition of organizations backing the bill. "We're getting our troops organized," he said.

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire
Caire

Whether you choose turkey, ham, beef or whatever for the star role in your Christmas dinner, you'll find very good prices at our area supermarkets, along with all the other needs and "goodies" for a festive meal, and for other gala occasions all through the holidays.

National offers turkeys, fresh or frozen, and Jitney Jungle stars self-basting birds (limit one, please). Also, there's "Ham What Am" all around town—smoked shank or butt cuts at National, along with whole hams, also (while the supply lasts!) Jitney Jungle highlights whole boneless hams (again, limit one, please) and, even if your family is a small one, you'll find countless ways to use up that leftovers.

Or, you might prefer to cook a pork butt from Winn-Dixie, or a trimmed beef brisket from Delchamps or Jitney Jungle.

You can easily use up the leftovers when having friends over for tea or drinks during the holidays; tiny rolls with slivers of ham or beef or pork always disappear quickly from the appetizer trays or the buffet table, don't they?

Sausage, in bulk or links, are featured at most area stores just now, with Winn-Dixie offering extra-special prices on the store brand bulk sausage, mild, medium or hot—I like the hot! So, let's start cooking up some tidbits for the holidays (and freeze them on cookie trays, then wrap them to have on hand, or for giving that something special from the kitchen) such as the tried and true: SAUSAGE-CHEESE BALLS

(Not quite quicker-than-a-wink, but almost—and always a favorite.)

1 lb. bulk sausage
1 lb. grated sharp Cheddar

cheese (or if you prefer) grated

3 cups biscuit mix, Bisquick or other

That's all there is to it—mix it all together. I prefer to "fry off" the sausage first, and drain off grease, but suit yourself. At any rate, mix well together, form into small balls, and drop on cookie sheets. Bake in a 350 degree oven for 15 or 20 minutes till browned.

To freeze—after all, you can't leave them hanging around in the fridge till Christmas, freeze them on the trays, as above. Let come to room temperature, and serve as is, or reheat, as I do—who wants a lukewarm tiny sausage-cheese ball? And, if they're for gifts, include a note about reheating, please.

And, while we're still on the subject of sausages, here's another easy-quickie holiday recipe, which takes well to freezing, so stash some away for your party or for unexpected company.

PARTY HOT SAUSAGE

3 pkgs. (approximately 9 links) hot sausage, sliced
2 cups dark brown sugar
4 Tblsp. Worcestershire sauce

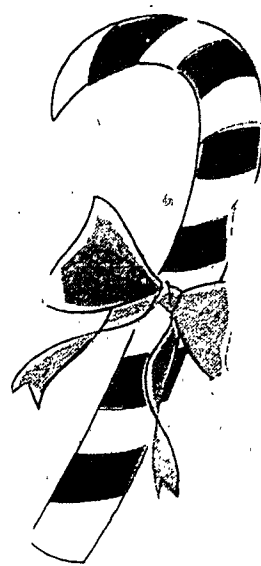

2 cups ketchup
Tabasco sauce to taste
1 cup barbecue sauce with onion bits
4 Tblsp. dry mustard.

Mix the sugar, barbecue sauce and Worcestershire sauce, ketchup and mustard, adding the Tabasco sauce. Pour over the sliced sausage and cook, covered, at 350 degrees for an hour. Uncover, and cook for a half hour more. Be sure to chill and remove the grease, then when ready, reheat and serve in a chafing dish or warm with picks. This is easily made ahead and frozen.

All right, enough of sausages—let's talk about all the "makings" for holiday treats. Flour, plain and self-rising, is offered at special savings at our area supermarkets, along with cake mixes if you're not in the mood to stir it all up "from scratch."

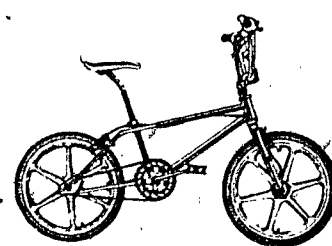

But, if you are in the mood, Delchamps has a special price on brown sugar, also on confectioner's sugar. Jitney

Jungle has special prices on condensed milk, and Winn-Dixie and Delchamps on coconut, raisins, dates and what have you—so get busy Christmas time's a-flying!

County receives grant for recreation facilities

BY DENA BISNETTE
Hancock County has received grant funds for two recreational projects.

Hancock County Recreation Director Hilda Bourg received notification of the grant earlier this week through the office of Congressman Gene Taylor.

The grant provides $18,000 in federal funds with Hancock County to provide the same amount in matching money.

The Mississippi Department of Wildlife and Fisheries will serve as administrator for the federal monies.

Bourg said part of the money will be used to provide a lighted ballpark in the Fenton Community and the necessary support facilities, such as restrooms and a concession building.

The remainder will be used for a basketball court in Pearlinton.

No arrests in murder, investigation continues

BY D.C. HARVILL

The investigation into the brutal, Dec. 6 murder of Novella Gillum, 66, and Latrice Gillum, 5, is still underway but no one has been arrested, Waveland Police Chief Donald Dorn said Friday afternoon.

"We are still talking to people. People in the area have been very cooperative, each day that goes by we make a little more progress," Dorn said.

The Gillums were found slain in the kitchen of their 508 Morris Street home in Waveland's Middletown neighborhood about 9 a.m. last Monday. Both had been stabbed in the neck and chest numerous times.

Investigators are waiting to receive the analysis from evidence sent to the Mississippi Crime Lab.

Mrs. Gillum's pocket book was found in bushes behind the house and a wallet believed to contain her money was missing. She had received Social Security and Railroad Retirement checks at the beginning of the month.

Dorn said he could not say when arrests could be expected.

Ladner, Bennett join tax assessors' organization

Hancock County's Chief Deputy Tax Assessor Yvonne Ladner and Ad Valorem Consultant E. Lee Bennett were among 140 Mississippians who recently formed a Mississippi chapter of the International Association of Assessing Officers.

The purpose of the organization is to promote a fair property tax through professionalism and professional designations; to improve assessment standards through education, modern methods and efficient technology, and to educate the public on the importance of the work performed by assessing officers in order to better serve the Mississippi taxpayers and to enhance excellence in the property tax system.

The worldwide organization is more than 8,000 members strong. IAAO sponsors educational programs, schools and seminars to serve its members. First organized in 1934, the association serves those in both the governmental and business community.

Also, the user fee would be increased by $3.50 to $4.

Some kind of graduated scale could be worked out, with FmHa approval, to protect elderly and fixed-income utility users, but city officials objected, with Longo stating that such a move may be made in the future but would not be used for the purpose of obtaining the loan.

Smith said the city must also build up a reserve fund equal to an annual payment on the loan during the first 10 years of the repayment period and must be able to guarantee that there will be enough money for operation and maintenance of the system as well as debt service costs before the loan can be approved.

"I intend to fight with them. I believe we can do this without a rate increase," Longo said.

"I feel I'm a very experienced utility manager," continued the mayor, who has served in the post for more than 20 years. "Most city utility systems don't make money, ours does. It's not that we're that much higher than others, but we have a very good organization and few bad debts."

He expects to hear from the FmHa in January after the holiday season ends and said he intends to seek other financing if other conditions can not be worked out.

Smith had commented at the hearing that the conditions the FmHa has requested are actually a recommendation and could be negotiated.

The city's options include proving that the requirements of the loan could be fulfilled without a rate increase or withdrawing the loan application.

removed before the permanent repairs can be made," Seal said.

The temporary overlay is not creating any additional cost to the county, because the contractor will absorb that expense, the engineer explained.

Most of the preliminary leveling was finished before rains began interfering with the work, which when completed will extend from Buccaneer

State Park to the Washington Street area.

As weather permits, joint bridging material is being put down to retard reflective cracking. Application of asphalt, however, must wait until the temperature rises above 55 degrees, Seal explained.

The last step in the road repair will be to add striping.

of hauling away the bodies of euthanized animals and time lost from work when city employees rounded up strays dumped at the shelter overnight.

The shelter building is located on City of Waveland property behind Fire Station No. 2 on Gulfside Drive. It is adjacent to the city barn and the Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District's treatment plant.

The tri-entity commission was disbanded and a Waveland Animal Commission eventually replaced it.

Although the need for expansion to cope with the county's population growth continues intermittently as a discussion topic, animals brought in from the county and Bay St. Louis are still being accepted at the shelter.

Parenting classes look at stress, other topics

BY DENA BISNETTE

Most parents never have any training in child-rearing, other than that they have received through their own parents.

The Hancock County Extension Service is changing that. Extension Home Economist Darlene Underwood is now teaching a six-lesson series on parenting.

She was trained about a year ago to teach the classes and has taught several sessions, mostly for parents referred to her by the Hancock County Welfare Department.

People in her current class were referred to her through the Hancock County Youth Court, and she hopes to be able to offer the parenting series to the general public in the future.

"This group at the Youth Court is as close to the general public as you're going to get. The only reason they're there is because their children have become involved in the Youth Court system in one way or another," she explained.

Much of the class material deals with the stresses involved in caring for children. Stress becomes a particularly important factor at times like Christmas, Underwood said.

The first lesson starts with a questionnaire which consists of a number of myths regarding parenting. The statements include such comments as "There are no bad children—only bad parents," "Children improve a marriage," "Kids can take care of themselves," and

"Everyone should have a baby."

Parents in the class indicate whether they agree or disagree with the statements in order to determine how they feel about dealing with their children.

"We talk about the ups of parenthood and the downside of it," she said.

After a discussion of the physical, intellectual, social and emotional ways children grow and develop, as well as the accompanying needs, the parents learn about child behavior.

According to Underwood, there are only three basic reasons children misbehave—attention, power over the parent and revenge.

"Then we talk about encouraging children. If you encourage them to do good, you don't have to spend all your time disciplining," she explained.

Contrary to popular belief, there is a difference between discipline and punishment, she added. Discipline is teaching and guidance, while punishment is retribution, making them pay for wrongdoing.

"You don't ever need to punish. A lot of parents kick in on punishment because they have tried some discipline and it is not working."

Discipline, which Underwood calls "the hardest part of parenting," works differently on different children. One method may work on a particular child for a time, then another must be tried.

Parents must be aware not only of stresses, but what causes them and how they themselves will react to the stress.

"If you holler at your kids, that's a form of abuse. We all do it," Underwood said.

She offers three other methods of relieving stress without taking it out on the children.

The first is to simply get rid of the stress.

"If a TV show upsets you, then don't watch it," Underwood said, explaining that this method may be harder is the stress in being caused by a person. In fact, the most stressful people to be around include mothers and spouses.

"If it's a person, don't go around that person. Don't invite your mother for two weeks at Christmas if she drives you crazy."

Another tactic for coping is controlling your own attitude.

An example of an exercise used in the class is writing down a pet peeve.

"We read them out and we discuss them. Rarely do two people have the same pet peeve, and as we read each of them, we find there is not much support for getting stressed out over that particular thing."

A person can also reduce stress, particularly during hectic times like holidays, by controlling events.

"One way to do that is simply plan ahead," Underwood said.

Another cause of stress is money, particularly with extra spending which occurs around the holidays. The answer is to control spending by cutting down on the amount spent on gifts for children, friends and neighbors, or to cut back on the amount of holiday entertaining.

"What happens to adults is what happens to kids. There's a lot of Christmas-related excitement and holiday events at school."

"There's a lot of pressure to perform, and mealtimes and bedtimes are not regular," Underwood said.

The class also includes instruction on a variety of stress-reduction techniques.

Effective communications skills help to reduce stress. Underwood and her students usually go through a role-playing exercise to work on this, with one person talking and the other one not allowed to give him any verbal cues. The exercise not only explores use of words, but gestures and eye contact as well.

"I" messages are an important tool in parenting, she said. If a parent addresses a child with a "you" message, such as "You must never be late," it could sound like an accusation, Underwood explained. An "I" message, such as "I get upset when you're late and don't call to tell me," can be much more effective.

In the final class, the parents discuss setting goals for themselves and their children.

"I learn something new every time I teach this series," said Underwood, who has two children.

To arrange for the parenting series or one of the many other classes offered by the Extension Service, contact Underwood at 467-5456.

Children need attention as they cope with holidays

BY DENA BISNETTE

Christmas holidays can be a stressful time for both parents and children.

According to Dr. Betty Spencer of The Counseling Center in Biloxi, "What is most important to remember about this time of year is that sometimes, children's expectations exceed their family's ability to meet them—in terms of money and gifts, and time and attention.

She offers advice for parents trying to handle the stresses affecting the relations they have with their youngsters.

"A parent needs to set a time when he or she will sit down with the children and give them some undivided attention," said Spencer, adding that activities such as playing games with kids are much more effective than doing something without much interaction, such as watching television.

"You can reduce stress by giving them five, 10, 15 minutes of undivided time at different points during the day."

Some stress will automatically occur due to the rush a holiday schedule can cause, as people try to maintain daily routines around Christmas events, entertaining, shopping and visitors.

There is also more exposure to the children due to school holidays.

"Parents need to find a positive way to get the child to help with household chores. The best way is to make it a group activity with everyone participating," Spencer advised.

Another problem is boredom. Children run out of things to do and as they become bored, they compete for attention. They resort to negative means to get attention, such as misbehavior, when they do not get what they want.

Spencer said a good method for coping with this problem is to keep it from occurring by planning a rough schedule of activities.

Holidays also bring on problems for children of divorced or separated parents.

"What is really essential for kids who are caught in families which are separated is that you not make derogatory remarks about the other person in front of the child," Spencer explained.

Planning again comes in handy in this situation. A child should not have to cope with too many things at once and should have his schedule explained to him so he is not left guessing what will happen next.

"It helps if the child has something to look forward to, if a mother says something like 'Now we're going to Daddy's house and at 3 p.m. I'll pick you up and we'll go to grand-mother's to open presents.' You're supplying predictability by always orienting to the future."

Guidelines for single parents

- Reassure children that they did not cause the situation, whether it be divorce, separation, illness, or death.
- Warn them to expect sympathy or embarrassment from others and help them to respond in a sincere, simple and positive way. Teach your child to say matter-of-factly: "My parents are divorced," or, "My father is dead," or, "My mom and I are my family."
- Be prepared for the loneliness that may accompany birthdays, holidays and vacations. Make plans to do some special activity to ease the loneliness.
- Try to retain some stability in traditions, friends, and surroundings to strengthen your family life.
- When there is a function for dads and kids only, or moms and kids only, find a friend or relative who is willing to play the role of the absent parent.
- Make it clear that yours is not a broken home and does not need fixing; it works quite well.

When we set an example of honesty, our children will be honest.
When we encircle them with love they will be loving.
When we practice tolerance they will be tolerant.
When we demonstrate good sportsmanship they will be good sports.
When we meet life with laughter and a twinkle in our eye, they will develop a sense of humor.
When we are thankful for life's blessings they will be thankful.
When we express friendliness they will be friendly.
When we speak words of praise they will praise others.
When we confront failure, defeat and misfortune with a gallant spirit, they will learn to live bravely.
When our lives affirm our faith in the enduring values of life they will rise above doubt and skepticism.
When we surround them with the love and goodness of God they will discover life's deeper meaning.
When we set an example of heroic living, they will be heroes.

Each of us began life as a single cell smaller than a pin-point. Yet the information to construct eyes, a nose, hair, two feet and two hands—and to put them all in the right places—was there from the start. How does a complete and coordinated baby emerge from such humble beginnings?

"Nova" explores this central

RESOLUTION OF THE BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE HANCOCK COUNTY SCHOOL DISTRICT CONCERNING THE NECESSITY FOR AND THE PURPOSE OF BORROWING MONEY FOR THE PURPOSE OF EQUIPPING, FURNISHING, RENOVATING, MAKING SITE IMPROVEMENTS AND CAPITAL IMPROVEMENTS TO SCHOOL BUILDINGS AND ATHLETIC FACILITIES WITHIN THE DISTRICT AND TO PAY THE COST OF SUCH BORROWING. ALL AT AN APPROXIMATE COST OF $1,800,000.00, SPECIFYING THE AMOUNT TO BE BORROWED, ADJUSTING THAT NO FUNDS ARE AVAILABLE TO THE HANCOCK COUNTY SCHOOL DISTRICT FOR SUCH PURPOSES, ORDERING SAID RESOLUTION TO BE PUBLISHED, AND SETTING THE DATE UPON WHICH THE BOARD OF EDUCATION IS TO TAKE FINAL ACTION UPON THE QUESTION OF AUTHORIZING THE BORROWING OF SAID MONEY.

WHEREAS, the Board of Education of the Hancock County School District of Hancock County, Mississippi, (the "Board") acting for and on behalf of the Hancock County School District (the "District"), does hereby find, determine, adjudicate and declare:

- That it is necessary and desirable that a maximum of One Million Eight Hundred Thousand and No/100 Dollars ($1,800,000.00) be borrowed for the purpose of purchasing and installing equipment and furnishings in and purchasing, installing, renovating or constructing athletic facilities at buildings within the District, including, but not limited to Hancock County High School; renovating school buildings within the District, including, but not limited to Hancock County North Central Elementary School; paying a parking lot and making other improvements at Gulfview Elementary School; installing fencing and performing site work and masonry work at schools within the District, including, but not limited to Hancock County High School; making other capital improvements to school buildings and facilities in the District; purchasing school buses and other transportation equipment; refunding outstanding short-term notes of the District; and paying the costs of such borrowing (the "Project").
- That no funds are available in the school funds of the District or from any other source with which to construct and perform the Project;
- That it would be in the best interest and to the advantage of the District for the District to borrow the funds needed for these purposes by issuing negotiable notes of the District in the maximum principal amount of One Million Eight Hundred Thousand and No/100 Dollars ($1,800,000.00) in the manner and form provided by Section 19-9-101, et seq., of the Mississippi Code of 1972, as amended (the "Act");
- That the purposes for which the funds are to be borrowed as herein set forth in this resolution are purposes authorized by the laws of the State of Mississippi, and particularly by the Act, and that said Board is authorized and required to declare the necessity and its intention of borrowing money and issuing the notes of the District as evidence of the same.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the Board of Education of the Hancock County School District, as follows:

SECTION 1. The Board does hereby find, determine and adjudicate that the foregoing premises are true and correct.

SECTION 2. The Board of the Hancock County School District does hereby declare that it is necessary to borrow an amount not exceeding One Million Eight Hundred Thousand and No/100 Dollars ($1,800,000.00) for the purpose of paying the costs of the Project, previously described herein, all at a total approximate cost of $1,800,000.00.

SECTION 3. The Board does hereby further declare that no funds are available in the school funds of the District or from any other sources with which to make such repairs, purchases or improvements, and that it is necessary that the cost thereof be borrowed in the manner and form provided by the Act.

SECTION 4. The Board hereby declares its intention to borrow such money and to issue notes of the District as evidence of the same. The notes shall bear interest at a rate to be specified by further resolution of the Board, but shall not exceed a greater overall maximum interest rate to maturity than the rates now or hereafter authorized under the provisions of Section 19-9-19 of the Mississippi Code of 1972, as amended. The notes shall not be sold for less than par and accrued interest. The notes shall be dated January 1, 1990, or such later date as the Board may specify, and shall mature in approximately equal annual installments of principal and interest over a period not to exceed ten (10) years, the first of said installments being due and payable one year after the date of the notes.

SECTION 5. That unless a petition signed by twenty percent (20%) of the qualified electors of said District, requesting that an election be called on the question of incurring said indebtedness, is filed prior to 5:30 p.m. on January 2, 1990, at the office of the Hancock County School District Superintendent or at the meeting of the Board scheduled for 5:30 p.m. on January 2, 1990, in the Board Room at the Shennick International Airport, Highway 603, in the City of Bay Saint Louis, Mississippi, final approval of the borrowing of said money and authority for the issuance of said notes shall be given by the Board at its meeting held on such date and hour at the above location.

SECTION 6. That the Secretary of the Board and he/she is hereby authorized and directed to cause this resolution as adopted to be published in The Sea Coast Echo, a newspaper published in Bay Saint Louis, Mississippi and of general circulation in the District and qualified under the provisions of Section 13-3-31 of the Mississippi Code of 1972, as amended. ## Choosing Safe Toys This Holiday Season

"Shining lights, Christmas trees, bells, Santa Claus and LOTS OF TOYS." That's what three-year-old Nicholas Saucier said he loves about Christmas, but his parents Mr. and Mrs. Frank Saucier of Bay St. Louis are the first to tell you: choosing appropriate toys for a young child can be puzzling. Which toys are safe and at what age is a child ready to handle a particular toy?

The Toy Manufacturers of America, the toy industry trade association, has provided Hancock Medical Center with this safety checklist which should be considered when shopping for children's playthings.

- * Use recommended age labeling as a guide and look for warning and other safety messages on toy packaging.

- * Consider the home environment and other, possibly younger children who may be there. A plaything intended for an older child may be unsuitable and potentially dangerous in the hands of younger siblings.
- * Especially when buying for children under the age of three, avoid toys with small parts that could be ingested; those with sharp points and edges that could be hazardous.

"Shining lights,

Santa Claus and
LOTS OF TOYS."
That's what three-year-old Nicholas Saucier loves about Christmas.

- * Check for sturdy, well-sewn seams on stuffed animals and cloth dolls. Be certain eyes and noses on such items are securely fastened and cannot be pulled or bitten off.
- * Make certain that rubber rattles, squeakers and teething toys are too large to fit completely in an infant's mouth. In addition, check to see that once a rubber toy is in its most compressed state, it is still too large to fit into baby's mouth.
- * Electric toys with heating elements are appropriate for youngsters over eight years old, as long as there is adult supervision.
- * Arrows and darts used by children should have blunt tips such as rubber or flexible plastic suction cups, cork or other protective points. Be certain the tips are attached securely to their shafts.
- * Look for the words "non-toxic" on painted toys; "flame retardant/flame-resistant" on fabrics; "machine/surface washable" on stuffed and cloth toys; and "UL Approved" for Underwriters Laboratories on electrical playthings.
- * Choose a toy storage chest that has a removable lid or a spring-loaded lid support, allowing the lid to remain securely open. Check for smooth, finished edges, proper holes for ventilation and hinge line clearances to prevent pinched fingers.

A Satisfied Patient says Thanks

Health care in Hancock County is not what it used to be: it's even better! Unfortunately, some residents of the area are not aware of the quality care now available in the county.

"I think it's time for people to stop listening to rumors and start enjoying the facility that's here," said Louie Smolensky, merchandise manager for Charlie Henderson Ford in Waveland and resident of Hancock County. "Too many people are going to New Orleans, Slidell and Gulfport for their health needs, when they really need to stop and see the great things right under their noses."

"I was treated really nicely, not like

I was a nobody or a number. From the minute I came in the door; from receptionist to nurses to housekeepers everyone was great!"

Smolensky was an HMC patient for four days last March when his physician Irene Koskan, M.D., admitted him for observation and tests. He was more than satisfied with his experience.

Louie Smolensky speaks highly of the warmth and friendliness of the HMC staff.

"I was treated really nicely, not like I was a nobody or a number. From the minute I came in the door: from receptionists to nurses to housekeepers, everyone was great!"

Satisfied patients like Mr. Smolensky are this hospital's badge of honor. At HMC both doctors and staff strive to give patients the best of both worlds: modern, state of the art, quality health care in a beautiful facility and personal care close to home. The administrative staff of Hancock Medical Center welcomes the public at any time to tour the hospital and meet the staff.

"At HMC they really try to please you — really go out of their way," Smolensky said. "I wish I could afford to take everybody out to lunch — someday maybe I will!"

Choosing Safe Toys This Holiday Season (continued)

Commission also recommends a few additional cautions:

- 1) Avoid hand-me-down toys with small parts for children under three years of age. If these toys are exceptionally old, they may not comply with current CPSC standards.
- 2) For infants and very young children, avoid toys with long strings or cords. The cords may become wrapped around an infant's neck and cause strangulation.
- 3) See that toys used outdoors are stored after play — rain or dew can rust or damage a variety of toys and toy parts creating hazards.

- 4) Examine toys periodically; watch out particularly for sharp edges and points that may have developed. Repair broken toys and discard toys that cannot be fixed.

Though careful selection of children's toys is an extra safeguard against injury, the CPSC has established further guidelines to ensure your child's safe play.

Toy safety regulations apply to small parts, sharp points, sharp edges, electrically operated toys, pacifiers, rattles, lawn darts, clacker balls, sound level of caps and toy guns, lead-in-paint, aluminumized polyester film kites and toys with hazardous chemicals. CPSC's investigators follow up on consumer complaints about hazardous toys by inspecting firms which make or import these products to ensure regulations are being followed. Products are also tested regularly to determine whether they meet regulations.

It is important to remember, however, that toy selection and careful manufacturing methods are not enough. True toy safety depends on adult participation and supervision. TMA stresses that playthings must be used, maintained and stored correctly to ensure that factory built-in safety continues.

"Children will learn safe play habits from their parents when parents participate in play . . . Parents or anyone responsible for a child's care must be safety experts. They must continue to be cautious and watchful, to check children during play and toys after purchase. Always remove and immediately discard all plastic wrapping from a toy before giving the toy to a child (especially babies and toddlers). This should be an automatic reflex. It's the simple safety precautions that are easiest to overlook which may be the deciding factor in preventing an accident. All the factory safety testing in the world will be worthless if parents don't do their part!"

Toy Manufacturers of America also has recommendations that will make an infant's environment as hazard-free as possible. They suggest that crib gyms (which are intended as grasping exercises for babies) be removed once the infant is five months old or begins to push up on hands and knees. It is also important to remember that crib toys (stuffed animals, rattles, beads) should never be hung or attached to a crib, playpen or carriage with elastic, string or ribbon. No matter how harmless it seems, this type of cord may get attached to a button or strap of clothing and entangle the baby's hands, feet or mouth resulting in an unpleasant accident, especially if the child is left unattended. Also, it is recommended that worn plastic side railing on a crib be replaced. The plastic surface may become brittle and potentially hazardous from a youngster's constant teething on the bar.

Christmas is a fun and memorable time of year, especially for children. And taking time to explain with children how to use toys safely and properly will help make this holiday season both safe and exciting for all.

 pinch red pepper
 2 bunches green onions chopped
 1 qt oysters chopped with liquid
 ½ pint half & half
 ½ pint milk

Melt the margarine. Saute the garlic and celery. Add the artichoke and flour. Stir together over medium heat. Allow this to stick then scrape it with a spoon. Repeat 2-3 times. Add chicken stock, seasonings and onions. Bring to a boil, then reduce heat and simmer for 15 minutes. Don't forget to stir. Add oysters. Bring to a boil. Add half and half and milk. Reheat and serve.

HOLIDAY PUNCH

 46 oz pineapple juice
 2 cups sugar or equivalent in sugar substitute
 2 pkg unsweetened red kool aide
 1 can fruit cocktail drained
 lime slices to garnish

Combine all ingredients. Mix well before serving. May be prepared ahead of time if the carbonated beverage is added just before serving.

On November 14 Hancock Medical Center hosted the second annual Healthy Holiday Cooking Classic, this time presented by The Landmark Restaurant in Bay St. Louis. Below are some of the delicious, healthy recipes demonstrated that evening. They're sure to add a festive flair to any party!

HOT CRAB DIP (low sodium)

1 lb crabmeat
 16 oz light cream cheese
 1 bunch green onions - chopped
 ½ teaspoon lemon juice
 red pepper to taste
 1 teaspoon worcestershire sauce

Pick any bits of shell and cartilage from crab meat. Combine all other ingredients and melt together over low heat. Serve warm.

ARTICHOKE BROWNIES ROCHELLE (low calorie, low cholesterol, low sodium)

1 egg
 1 can artichoke hearts - chopped (save liquid)
 ½ cup olive oil
 ½ cup grated parmesan cheese dash red pepper
 1 bunch green onions - chopped
 1 rib celery - chopped fine
 2 cloves garlic minced
 1 cup seasoned bread crumbs
 ¼ bunch parsley - chopped

Mix egg and liquid from the artichoke hearts. Mix in the other ingredients and press into an ungreased pan. Bake at 350° for 30 minutes. Cut when cooled into 1" squares.

PUMPKIN PIE CAKE

1 box yellow cake mix (no pudding recipe)
 (reserve 1 cup for topping)
 1 stick cholesterol free margarine melted and cooled
 1 egg - beaten
 1 16 oz can pumpkin
 3 eggs slightly beaten
 ½ cup brown sugar
 ½ cup white sugar
 ⅓ cup milk
 2 teaspoons pumpkin pie spice or cinnamon
 ½ cup white sugar
 ¼ cup soft low-cholesterol margarine

Flour and grease 9" x 13" baking pan. Combine the cake mix, melted margarine and 1 egg. Stir until well blended. Mix together the next 6 ingredients and pour on top of the cake. Crumble together the 1 cup remaining cake mix, the soft margarine and ½ cup sugar and sprinkle onto the cake. (1 cup chopped nuts can be added to the topping) Bake at 350° for 55 to 60 minutes.

DIJON VINAIGRETTE (low sodium, low cholesterol)

3 eggs
 2 cups red wine vinegar
 heaping tablespoon coarse ground black pepper
 2 cloves pressed garlic
 5 shakes Tabasco sauce
 pinch salt
 1 tablespoon dijon mustard
 2 cups olive oil
 3 quarts salad oil (vegetable oil)
 1 bunch green onions chopped

Beat eggs and vinegar together, with mixer, add the next 5 ingredients. Slowly beat in the next 2 ingredients (the oils). Gradually add the chopped onions.

Beautifully set atop a high ridge overlooking the Bay of Saint Louis sits the glorious church of Our Lady of the Gulf and nestled behind amid protecting trees is the Shrine of Our Lady of the Woods. Generations of Catholics and non-Catholics alike have sent their children to the schools within this Romanesque appointed compound. May ceremonies and crownings have delighted the young and young-at-heart since the erection of the shrine of Our Lady of the Woods in 1847.

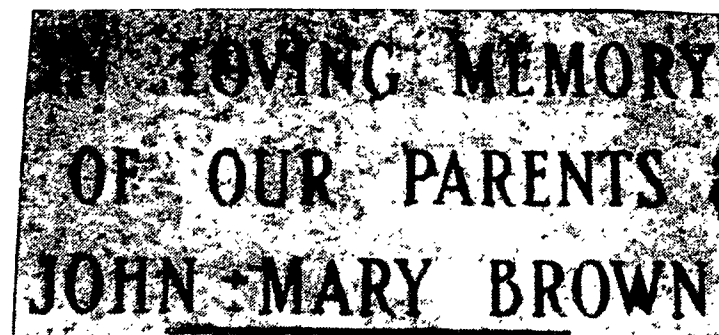

In 1989 the community began the restoration of the Shrine to Our Lady of the Woods to its rightful state and build a permanent walk of memories. We invite you to participate in this historic event.

Our Lady of the Woods Walk of Memories

The Shrine to Our Lady of the Woods, now 142 years old, is being restored to preserve its own unique place in Catholic history along the Gulf.

As part of this restoration, a 700 foot granite-stone walkway is being constructed to trace the original 1858 path from Beach Boulevard to the Shrine. Since each stone will be engraved to perpetuate your memories, the stone path will be a WALK OF MEMORIES.

A tax deductible donation of $150.00 orders your personalized, engraved stone which we will install on the Shrine's promenade. This 6" x 12" granite stone can be engraved in your name, that of you and your spouse, or that of your family.

Additionally, you may wish to remember a relative, friend, former teacher, pastor or organization that is dear to you.

Reserve your place now in this unique WALK OF MEMORIES and you will also assist our efforts in providing quality education to
- our community's children.

The Shrine of Our Lady of the Woods

The Shrine was erected in 1847 by Fr. Stanislaus Buteux. A statue was brought from France a few months after its erection and several years later, a gentleman in serious difficulties, prayed to Our Lady of the Woods for aid, and promised to erect a suitable shrine if his prayers were answered. The gentleman's prayers were answered, and he erected the shrine as a token of his gratitude.

The original statue has stood all these years, and more than once in the hurricanes it was thought to be lost, only to turn up under the leafy debris. Hurlled around by hurricanes, standing the test of time, this plaster of paris statue has had no protection other than the tiny dome of the shrine overhead.

The Shrine of Our Lady of the Woods is located to the rear of the Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church in Bay St. Louis and may be found by exiting the east side of the church and following the tree lined path to the end of the property.
